Nominations Requested for Storke, Friedman and Other University Awards

The campus community is invited to submit nominations for the 2014 University Awards, which are given to students completing undergraduate or graduate degrees during the current academic year. Recipients are honored for performing “above and beyond the call of duty” in service to the university, the student body and the community.

Among the awards are the Thomas More Storke Award; the Jeremy D. Friedman Memorial Award; the Yonie Harris Award for Civility in Public Discourse; the Alice Marita Whitted Memorial Award; the University Service Award and the University Award of Distinction.

About UC Santa Barbara

The University of California, Santa Barbara is a leading research institution that also provides a comprehensive liberal arts learning experience. Our academic community of faculty, students, and staff is characterized by a culture of interdisciplinary collaboration that is responsive to the needs of our multicultural and global society. All of this takes place within a living and learning environment like no other, as we draw inspiration from the beauty and resources of our extraordinary location at the edge of the Pacific Ocean.
