

UC SANTA BARBARA

THE Current

October 19, 2001

Bill Schlotter

TALK TO EXAMINE RELIGIOUS PLURALISM IN UNITED STATES IN THE AFTERMATH OF SEPTEMBER 11 TERRORIST ACTS

In the wake of the terrorist attacks on the United States, Wade Clark Roof, the J.F. Rowley Professor of Religion and Society at UC Santa Barbara and chair of the Department of Religious Studies, will discuss the challenges of religious pluralism at a UCSB Town Forum lecture to be given at 5:30 p.m., Tuesday, Nov. 13 at the University Club, 1332 Santa Barbara St., Santa Barbara.

A brief social precedes the lecture and begins at 5:15 p.m.

Cost of admission is $5 for members of either the UCSB Affiliates or the Chancellor's Council.

For all others, admission is $8.

Roof, a member of the UCSB faculty since 1990, is a frequent commentator on religious trends in the United States and, with UCSB colleague Richard Hecht, is conducting a study of religious pluralism in Southern California under a grant from the Ford Foundation.

In his talk, Roof will share his views on how Americans think about religious pluralism and how religious people might learn more about themselves and their own faiths as they encounter others.

Reservations are recommended and can be made by calling the UCSB Office of Community Relations at (805) 893-4388.

About UC Santa Barbara

The University of California, Santa Barbara is a leading research institution that also provides a comprehensive liberal arts learning experience. Our academic community of faculty, students, and staff is characterized by a culture of interdisciplinary collaboration that is responsive to the needs of our multicultural and global society. All of this takes place within a living and learning environment like no other, as we draw inspiration from the beauty and resources of our extraordinary location at the edge of the Pacific Ocean.