

UC SANTA BARBARA

THE Current

June 20, 2005

Rick Van Hoorn

UC Santa Barbara Offers Summer Adapted Recreation Programs

UC Santa Barbara's Adapted Recreation Program will offer a Junior Wheelchair Sports Camp on July 15-19 for individuals between the ages of 5 and 19.

A two-day Adapted Cycling Clinic will follow on August 13 and 27. The cycling clinic is geared for participants age 10 and above.

The cost is $200 for the five-day sports camp and $10 for the cycling clinic. Registration for the camp will close on July 8.

Scholarships are available. For more information or to register, call (805) 893-4114.

UCSB's Adapted Recreation Program provides year-round recreational and sports events for children and adults with physical and developmental disabilities.

Volunteers are needed for all programs.

Training will be provided.

To learn more about volunteer opportunities, contact Kim Coley, volunteer coordinator, at the number above or by e-mail: kim.coley@essr.ucsb.edu

About UC Santa Barbara

The University of California, Santa Barbara is a leading research institution that also provides a comprehensive liberal arts learning experience. Our academic community of faculty, students, and staff is characterized by a culture of interdisciplinary collaboration that is responsive to the needs of our multicultural and global society. All of this takes place within a living and learning environment like no other, as we draw inspiration from the beauty and resources of our extraordinary location at the edge of the Pacific Ocean.