Hang Out With UC President Janet Napolitano

UC President Janet Napolitano invites staff members to join her for a one-hour online conversation at 2 p.m. on Wednesday, April 16.

Napolitano will address a variety of topics, including the newly reported results from the Campus Climate Survey, compensation and benefits and investments in technology and infrastructure. She will also discuss her priorities for the university and hear from staff members about their hopes and challenges.

This web chat is the second in a series of Google Hangouts between Napolitano and various groups within the UC community. They are designed to foster open and ongoing dialogue around university issues. A web chat with students was held in January, and a Hangout with faculty is being planned for later this year.
