UC SANTA BARBARA

THE Current

June 13, 2016
Andrea Estrada

UCSB's Newest Alumni

Neither cool temperatures nor gray skies could dampen the spirits and excitement of the 5,482 UCSB students who received their undergraduate and graduate degrees in six ceremonies over Commencement Weekend, June 11 and 12. The ceremonies were organized by college, field of study and level of degree. Proud parents, families and friends filled the Commencement Green and cheered as their students walked across the stage and were recognized by Chancellor Henry T. Yang.

In all, UCSB conferred degrees upon 5,745 students over eight official ceremonies, and by the end of Commencement Weekend Yang had shaken the hand of every student graduating from the College of Creative Studies, the College of Engineering, the College of Letters and Science, the Bren School of Environmental Science & Management and the Graduate Division.

For access to the "UCSB 2016 Commencement Highlights" video, featuring highlights from UC Santa Barbara's 2016 Commencement Weekend, please contact us.

About UC Santa Barbara

The University of California, Santa Barbara is a leading research institution that also provides a comprehensive liberal arts learning experience. Our academic community of faculty, students, and staff is characterized by a culture of interdisciplinary collaboration that is responsive to the needs of our multicultural and global society. All of this takes place within a living and learning environment like no other, as we draw inspiration from the beauty and resources of our extraordinary location at the edge of the Pacific Ocean.