

UC SANTA BARBARA

THE Current

Campus + Community

Oral history project gathering stories from Afro-Chicanx community

Keith Hamm

April 4, 2024

Share this article

People from across Southern California who identify as AfroMexican, AfroChicanx, Blaxican, AfroHispano, and/or Mexican of the Black/African diaspora are invited to UC Santa Barbara to tell their stories as part of a growing digital archive of oral history interviews.

Oral histories will be recorded from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., April 5–7, on campus.

Registration is required.

“Using digital humanities tools and oral history methods, we are working to create an Afro-Chicanx multimodal and bilingual digital archive for undergraduate students, local and transnational communities and academic departments,” said Micaela Díaz-Sánchez, a professor of Chicana/o studies and co-principal investigator with Dora Careaga-Coleman of the University of New Mexico and University of Arizona’s Michelle Téllez.

The project, “Afro-Chicanx Digital Humanities Project: Memories, Narratives, and Oppositional Consciousness of Black Diasporas,” also includes a photography workshop with photojournalist Koral Carballo at 5 p.m. on April 4 at the Las Maestras Center, located at South Hall 1415. And starting at 4 p.m. on April 6 at the Ortega Welcome House (632 E. Ortega St.) in downtown Santa Barbara, Dora Careaga-Coleman, a professor at the University of New Mexico, will host a culinary workshop on the flavors of the African diaspora.

For more information, email John Jairo Valencia at johnvalencia@ucsb.edu.

Tags

Diversity, Equity and Inclusion

Media Contact

Keith Hamm

Social Sciences, Humanities & Fine Arts Writer

keithhamm@ucsb.edu

Share this article

About UC Santa Barbara

The University of California, Santa Barbara is a leading research institution that also provides a comprehensive liberal arts learning experience. Our academic community of faculty, students, and staff is characterized by a culture of interdisciplinary collaboration that is responsive to the needs of our multicultural and global society. All of this takes place within a living and learning environment like no other, as we draw inspiration from the beauty and resources of our extraordinary location at the edge of the Pacific Ocean.